Acknowledgement of Country

The University of Melbourne acknowledges the Traditional Owners of the unceded land on which we work, learn and live: the Wurundjeri Woi Wurrung and Bunurong peoples (Burnley, Fishermans Bend, Parkville, Southbank and Werribee campuses), the Yorta Yorta Nation (Dookie and Shepparton campuses), and the Dja Dja Wurrung people (Creswick campus).

The University also acknowledges and is grateful to the Traditional Owners, Elders and Knowledge Holders of all Indigenous nations and clans who have been instrumental in our reconciliation journey.

We recognise the unique place held by Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the original owners and custodians of the lands and waterways across the Australian continent, with histories of continuous connection dating back more than 60,000 years. We also acknowledge their enduring cultural practices of caring for Country.

We pay respect to Elders past, present and future, and acknowledge the importance of Indigenous knowledge in the Academy. As a community of researchers, teachers, professional staff and students we are privileged to work and learn every day with Indigenous colleagues and partners.

Position Summary

The Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences, within the Faculty of Medicine, Dentistry and Health Sciences, is one of the leading schools of Psychology in Australia, with active research programs in Cognitive and Behavioural Neuroscience, Developmental Psychology, Clinical Science, Cognitive and Mathematical Psychology, and Social and Personality Psychology as well as a large undergraduate teaching program and postgraduate research and professional training programs. The School has recently established four research hubs in Decision Science, Complex Human Data, Ethics and Well-Being, and Brain and Mental Health, and it also hosts the Melbourne Centre for Behaviour Change and the Contemplative Studies Centre.

The School is seeking to appoint an outstanding research assistant to contribute to research on examining the validity of published findings in social psychology. The successful applicant will report to Professor Simine Vazire at the Melbourne School of Psychological Sciences. The candidate will help develop and carry out research projects, clean and analyze data, and will have the opportunity to participate in writing up research reports for publication. Applicants who are interested in learning more about social psychology, research methods, scientific evidence, validity, and research integrity will have opportunities to join conversations and projects on those themes.

The successful applicant will show evidence of the capacity to work as a member of a team, experience with statistics and/or data analysis, and good communication skills. The successful applicant will be integrated in the research labs of the senior investigator and the Ethics and Wellbeing Hub in the School.

As an Academic staff member, the successful applicant is expected to support the broad ethos of the School and the School’s compliance with University policies and procedures, including environmental health and safety as well as the Faculty’s and the University’s values.

5.4 ADVANCING MELBOURNE

The University’s strategic direction is grounded in its purpose. While its expression may change, our purpose is enduring: to benefit society through the transformative impact of education and research. Together, the vision and purpose inform the focus and scale of our aspirations for the coming decade.

Advancing Melbourne reflects the University’s commitment to its people, its place, and its partners. Our aspiration for 2030 is to be known as a world-leading and globally connected Australian university, with our students at the heart of everything we do.

‣ We will offer students a distinctive and outstanding education and experience, preparing them for success as leaders, change agents and global citizens.

‣ We will be recognised locally and globally for our leadership on matters of national and global importance, through outstanding research and scholarship and a commitment to collaboration.

‣ We will be empowered by our sense of place and connections with communities. We will take opportunities to advance both the University and the City of Melbourne in close collaboration and synergy.

‣ We will deliver this through building a brilliant, diverse and vibrant University community, with strong connections to those we serve.

The means for achieving these goals include the development of the University of Melbourne’s academic and professional staff and the capabilities needed to support a modern, world-class university. Those means require a commitment to ongoing financial sustainability and an ambitious infrastructure program which will reshape the campus and our contribution to the communities we engage with. This strategy, and the priorities proposed, is centred around five intersecting themes; place, community, education, discovery and global.
