The University of Melbourne

Consistently ranked as Australia's best university, Melbourne enjoys an outstanding reputation as one of the world's leading comprehensive research-intensive universities.

Ranked number 32 in the latest Times Higher Education World University Rankings*, Melbourne competes on an international stage with the best institutions globally and has an international outlook and reach to match.

With a rich history stretching over 160 years, the University of Melbourne also occupies a special place in the heart of the city. Since its founding in 1853, the University has been a public-spirited institution committed to making distinctive contributions to intellectual, cultural, social and economic life in the region and beyond. These values underpin the University's entire academic mission and shape operating practices, preparing engaged graduates and steering research that advances the world.

With a wide range of disciplines, the University of Melbourne currently educates over 50,000+ students from over 130 countries. The University comprises ten Academic Divisions providing learning that stimulates, challenges and fulfils the potential of excellent students from around the world, leading to personal development, meaningful careers and profound contributions to society.

The alumni network is significant and truly international, with representation from 160 countries. This international community includes former Prime Ministers, Governors General, and Nobel Laureates, and is a testament to the world-class education the University of Melbourne delivers.

The University employs over 8,000+ staff including many renowned researchers and industry leaders who are internationally recognised. Some of our scholars and high-achieving staff include Nobel Prize Laureate Professor Peter Doherty, who co-discovered how the immune system recognises virus infected cells; internationally recognised chemist, Professor Andrew Holmes, President of the Australian Academy of Science, who received the 2012 Royal Medal for his groundbreaking research in polymer chemistry; and Paediatric neurologist, Professor Ingrid Scheffer, who received the 2012 Asia-Pacific L'Oréal-UNESCO Women in Science award for her pioneering research into the causes of epilepsy.

The University of Melbourne operates an annual budget exceeding $2 billion, with income from research grants, student fees, government grants, commercial operations, executive education, investment and philanthropy. The increased demand for teaching programs, and the University's focus on sustainability and resilience, have allowed savings to be reinvested into strategic teaching and research-related initiatives.

4. Renowned for delivering learning and teaching programs that transform talented students thoughtful and accomplished graduates

5. Known for research and impact, underpinned by a comprehensive and world-leading discipline base

6. Achieving student satisfaction and graduate outcomes comparable to the best universities in the world

7. Providing opportunities for students from all cultures and all backgrounds to participate successfully in the educational, cultural and social life of the University

8. Fully engaged in the life, culture and aspirations of Melbourne and the regions we serve

9. Deeply connected with business, government and community, to engage with partners to leverage research and teaching strengths

10. Recognised as a leader in embedding sustainability in all aspects of the University's operations, teaching and learning, research and engagement

The Faculty of Arts

The Faculty of Arts at the University of Melbourne is widely recognised as Australia's premier Arts Faculty

The Faculty of Arts promotes a workplace that actively seeks to welcome and value the unique contributions of all people including those with diverse backgrounds. Our Faculty has gender parity across all levels and supports its staff through initiatives such as the Faculty of Arts Conference Childcare Support Scheme and the Indigenous Development Plan (DIDP)

Arts at Melbourne is home to the University's first degree, the Bachelor of Arts. The Faculty brings together leading local and international scholars, and industry partners, across 40 disciplines of study in the humanities, social sciences and languages. Our academic staff are of international standing and committed to excellence in teaching and research. The Faculty currently hosts two ARC Centres of Excellence and a series of research centres, units and networks.

Our Bachelor of Arts is one of the most sought-after degrees in Australia, consistently attracting outstanding students from around the country, and internationally. Our teaching programs encourage critical inquiry, creativity, global perspectives and the questioning of ideas. In 2016, the Faculty opened Arts West – an award-winning building in the heart of the historic campus and a new home for the Bachelor of Arts. Arts West supports active and informal learning through object-based learning laboratories and purpose-built teaching spaces which has transformed teaching and learning in the humanities and social sciences, setting a new benchmark in the Asia region.

Our Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences offers 19 professionally oriented Masters programs such as Arts and Cultural Management, Applied Linguistics, Global Media Communication, International Relations and Public Policy and Management. The Graduate School also houses our outstanding PhD program.

Over its 150-year history, the Faculty has produced leaders in a wide range of fields, including government, business, creative industries and media, community and not-for-profit organisations. The Faculty maintains strong strategic relationships with leading international universities through joint teaching collaborations, research projects and student exchange programs. Partnerships with government, not-for-profit and private organisations facilitate work integrated learning opportunities for our students and research collaboration with our researchers. The Faculty has an active and vibrant outreach program, promoting lifelong learning in the humanities, languages and social sciences.

Our community includes over 450 academic and professional staff, 10,000 students across undergraduate, graduate coursework and research higher degree programs, and a strong and active alumni population of over 70,000 worldwide.

Alongside the Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences, the Faculty consists of five interdisciplinary Schools:

Asia Institute – the University's key centre for study in Asian languages and cultures, with programs including Arabic, Chinese, Indonesian and Japanese languages, alongside Asian, Islamic and Contemporary Chinese Studies.

School of Culture and Communication – with programs in Art History, Arts and Cultural Management, Australian Indigenous Studies, Creative Writing, English and Theatre Studies, Media and Communications, Publishing and Editing, Journalism, and Screen and Cultural Studies.

School of Historical and Philosophical Studies – encompassing History, History and Philosophy of Science, Philosophy, Conservation and Classics and Archaeology.

School of Languages and Linguistics – includes French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish languages, alongside European studies, Latin American studies and Linguistics, Applied Linguistics and English as a Second Language.

School of Social and Political Sciences – with programs in Anthropology and Development Studies, Criminology, Political Science, and Sociology and Social Policy.

Values and Behaviours

The University of Melbourne

Established in 1853, the University of Melbourne is a leading international university with a tradition of excellence in teaching and research. The main campus in Parkville is recognised as the hub of Australia's premier knowledge precinct comprising eight hospitals, many leading research institutes and a wide-range of knowledge-based industries. With outstanding performance in international rankings, the University is at the forefront of higher education in the Asia-Pacific region and the world.

The University employs people of outstanding calibre and offers a unique environment where staff are valued and rewarded.

Growing Esteem, The Melbourne Curriculum and research at Melbourne: Ensuring Excellence and Impact to 2025

Growing Esteem describes Melbourne's strategy to achieve its aspiration to be a public-spirited and internationally - engaged institution, highly regarded for making distinctive contributions to society in research and research training, learning and teaching, and engagement.

<http://about.unimelb.edu.au/strategy-and-leadership>

The University is at the forefront of Australia's changing higher education system and offers a distinctive model of education known collectively as the Melbourne Curriculum. The new educational model, designed for an outstanding experience for all students, is based on six broad undergraduate programs followed by a graduate professional degree, research higher degree or entry directly into employment. The emphasis on academic breadth as well as disciplinary depth in the new degrees ensures that graduates will have the capacity to succeed in a world where knowledge boundaries are shifting and reforming to create new frontiers and challenges. In moving to the new model, the University is also aligning itself with the best of emerging European and Asian practice and well-established North American traditions.

The University's global aspirations seek to make significant contributions to major social, economic and environmental challenges. Accordingly, the University's research strategy Research at Melbourne: Ensuring Excellence and Impact to 2025 aspires to a significant advancement in the excellence and impact of its research outputs.

<http://research.unimelb.edu.au/our-research/research-at-melbourne>

The strategy recognises that as a public-spirited, research-intensive institution of the future, the University must strive to make a tangible impact in Australia and the world, working across disciplinary and sectoral boundaries and building deeper and more substantive engagement with industry, collaborators and partners. While cultivating the fundamental enabling disciplines through investigator-driven research, the University has adopted three grand challenges aspiring to solve some of the most difficult problems facing our world in the next century. These Grand Challenges include:

- Understanding our place and purpose – The place and purpose grand challenge centres on understanding all aspects of our national identity, with a focus on Australia’s ‘place’ in the Asia-Pacific region and the world, and on our ‘purpose’ or mission to improve all dimensions of the human condition through our research.
- Fostering health and wellbeing – The health and wellbeing grand challenge focuses on building the scale and breadth of our capabilities in population and global health; on harnessing our contribution to the ‘convergence revolution’ of biomedical and health research, bringing together the life sciences, engineering and the physical sciences; and on addressing the physical, mental and social aspects of wellbeing by looking beyond the traditional boundaries of biomedicine.
- Supporting sustainability and resilience – The sustainability and resilience grand challenge addresses the critical issues of climate change, water and food security, sustainable energy and designing resilient cities and regions. In addition to the technical aspects, this grand challenge considers the physical and social functioning of cities, connecting physical phenomena with lessons from our past, and the implications of the technical solutions for economies, living patterns and behaviours.

Essential to tackling these challenges, an outstanding faculty, high performing students, wide collaboration including internationally and deep partnerships with external parties form central components of Research at Melbourne: Ensuring Excellence and Impact to 2025.

Governance

The Vice Chancellor is the Chief Executive Officer of the University and responsible to Council for the good management of the University.

People and Benefits

The University is committed to providing an intellectually stimulating and personally rewarding workplace which attracts people who are the best in their professional, academic and teaching fields

Outstanding academic staff are at the heart of the University's teaching, research and engagement endeavours. The University is proud of its many staff that have been recognised through prestigious national and international awards and through membership of Australia's learned academics. Among the many scholars of international renown at the University is the winner of the Nobel Prize – Professor Peter Doherty (Physiology and Medicine) and many other public intellectuals and scientific leaders.

The Benefits

The University offers staff more than just a job – it offers them an opportunity to be part of a dynamic world class organisation which provides its staff with exceptional benefits and support at every stage of their life and career.

- Working in a culturally inclusive environment
- Engaging in an active and vibrant campus life
- A focus on health and wellbeing
- Outstanding staff benefits in addition to competitive salary packages

Staff benefits on offer at the University include the opportunity to salary package everything from childcare and additional superannuation to subscriptions to the Melbourne Theatre Company. Benefits can be tailored to best suit individual needs and circumstances, including generous relocation support.

Course fees can also be salary packaged and come at a 25% discount for staff and their immediate families. Unsurprisingly, the University has high numbers of working parents. The University offers staff access to several program initiatives that assists in balancing their work and life commitments, including onsite childcare facilities, flexible work arrangements and access to internal grant schemes to support academics returning from career interruption. The University of Melbourne was one of the first winners of the Fair and Flexible Employer Recognition award.

Living and Working in Melbourne

Geography

Melbourne is the capital city of Victoria and the second largest city in Australia. It is set around the shores of Port Phillip Bay and sits beside the Yarra River, around five kilometres from the bay.

Melbourne is home 4.5 million people and a metropolitan area of 9990.5 km². The Economist Intelligence Unit has rated Melbourne one of the world's most liveable city for six consecutive years, based on its education, entertainment, health care, research and development, tourism and sport.

The City of Melbourne municipality, in which the University's main Parkville campus is based, covers 37.7 km² and has a population of more than 143 000 people. It includes the city centre and a number of attractive inner suburbs with thriving communities and businesses.

The City of Melbourne is home to residents from 180 countries who speak more than 233 languages and dialects and follow 116 religious faiths. The Wurundjeri, Boonwurrung, Taungurong, Dja Dja Wurrung and the Wathaurung people of the Kulin Nation are the Traditional Owners of the land now known by its European name of Melbourne.

The City of Melbourne is recognised as Australia's cultural capital with a number of world-class galleries and museums, internationally renowned food and wine regions, and an impressive year-round calendar of events catering for all tastes. Melbourne has many precincts, each with its own unique character and offering different cultural experiences, for example

Greek culture around Lonsdale Street, Italian on Lygon Street Carlton, Chinese in Chinatown and French on Collins Street.

Parkville Campus

Parkville is the main campus of the University of Melbourne. It stretches across more than 20 hectares and is located just 1.7 kilometres north of the city centre. The campus is well connected by trams and buses and a short walk to Melbourne Central Station with frequent buses to North Melbourne Station. Plans to build an underground train line connecting North Melbourne to South Yarra, via the University and the Central Business District, have been approved with the construction to begin in 2018.

Other major University of Melbourne buildings are located off campus, east of Swanston Street and south of Grattan Street as far as Queensberry Street. The University has 12 residential halls and colleges, most of which line the northern boundary of the campus along College Crescent.

The Parkville campus environment is vibrant and dynamic where music, exhibitions, sporting facilities, libraries and excellent cafes can be found for all to enjoy. Numerous services are located on the Parkville campus for convenience.

There are multiple green spaces on campus as well as large public spaces located close by, including Royal Park and the Carlton Gardens.

The University of Melbourne is constantly expanding and improving its facilities to ensure that staff and students are working within world-class environments, and with top-quality resources.

building was completely reimagined and purpose built, providing integrated functional space for class workshops, private and group study and discussion pods. The building features architectural features and construction methods inspiring students and encouraging them to continue their learning outside of the classroom.

Another recently completed project is the Arts West Building. Opened in 2016 by the Faculty of Arts, it is a showcase of innovative learning spaces that support new ways of teaching and learning.

The Carlton Connect Initiative was recently launched and will build an innovative community precinct which draws on local talent and business to tackle complex problems. Working across sectors, the Initiative drives partnerships – connecting world-class talent with 21st century technologies to address global challenges that cannot be solved by one sector alone.

In an ongoing partnership with its neighbour, the Royal Melbourne Hospital, the University of Melbourne established the Melbourne Biomedical Precinct, a major global research and teaching powerhouse with 25 health service, research and academic partners sharing a formidable history of ground-breaking medical discoveries and developments. Partners within the Precinct include Walter and Eliza Hall Institute, Biomedical Research Victoria and CSL Ltd, all within a three kilometre radius, allowing them to share resources and engage in meaningful collaborations.

The University of Melbourne is also at the heart of a key initiative supporting the Victorian Government's Defence Technologies Sector Strategy to develop an advanced manufacturing and research precinct. In 2016 the Victorian Government acquired a 37-hectare site at Fishermans Bend with the aim of creating a world-class design, engineering and technology precinct. The technology hub will become a centre of excellence attracting cutting-edge innovators in the areas of aerospace, defence, marine design and automotive design.

Recently, the University of Melbourne also opened a new building for the Melbourne School of Design, designed in collaboration with John Wardle Architects (Melbourne) and NASAAA (Boston). Retaining the original façade, the remainder of the
