ORGANISATIONAL CONTEXT

Monash is a university of transformation, progress and optimism. Our people are our most valued asset, with our academics among the best in the world and our professional staff revolutionising the way we operate as an organisation. For more information about our University and our exciting future, please visit www.monash.edu.

The Faculty of Medicine, Nursing and Health Sciences is the largest faculty at Monash University, and offers the most comprehensive suite of professional health training in Victoria. We consistently rank in the top 40 universities worldwide for clinical, pre-clinical and health sciences.

We want to improve the human condition. That is our vision - it has no expiration date. Through academic health centres, other translational models and by educating the healthcare workforce of the future, our staff, students and alumni directly improve quality of life. Setting the global health care agenda, the Faculty aspires to lead in all areas of research activity and influence local, national and international policy to improve health and social outcomes and health inequalities.

We’ve made a major impact in the world of medical research and become globally recognised for our quality education of over 41,000 doctors, nurses, and allied health professionals. We are ambitious and aim to maintain our position as a leading international medical research university. We’re recognised for the breadth and depth of our research, for our commitment to translational research, for the quality and scale of our research capability, and as a thriving biotechnology hub.

The School of Primary and Allied Health Care (SPAHC) has an organisational hub at the Peninsula campus. The School aims to be Australia’s leading centre of primary and allied health care education and research, building on existing strengths. The SPAHC is a leader in primary and allied care research, teaching and service. The School provides high quality programs at undergraduate and graduate entry levels, specialised professional graduate coursework programs and higher degrees by research. The School currently includes the Departments of General Practice, Paramedicine, Occupational Therapy, Physiotherapy, Social Work and Medical Imaging and Radiation Sciences.
The School’s departments and centres are situated across the Caulfield, Clayton and Peninsula Campuses and at Notting Hill (near to the Clayton campus). Two new research centres have been developed within the school: a Centre for Addiction Research and Recovery and a Rehabilitation, Ageing and Independent Living (RAIL) Research Centre.

Further details may be found at: https://www.monash.edu/medicine/spahc.

The Department of Paramedicine provides undergraduate and postgraduate courses to students currently working in or planning employment in out-of-hospital and community-based emergency health settings. The core business of the Paramedicine department is to:

- Provide education and training services to meet the needs of ambulance services and of private patient transport services in Australia and internationally;
- Provide specialist postgraduate education programs for paramedics from Australia and overseas as well as other health professionals in the field of community-based emergency health; and
- Undertake research in the field of community-based emergency health and paramedic practice
