Position Description

Level C – Senior Lecturer

A Level C teaching and research academic is expected to develop curriculum, teach and/or undertake research and/or other scholarly work relevant to the development of their discipline or professional field. An academic at this level will make a significant contribution to the discipline at the national level. They will normally play a major role or provide a significant degree of leadership in scholarly, research and/or professional activities relevant to the profession.

Position Context

This position plays a key role in the academic leadership team in the School of Nursing and Midwifery, one School within the College of Science, Health and Engineering at La Trobe. It will contribute towards maintaining the School's excellence in teaching and research through leading and mentoring across the School.

The College of Science, Health and Engineering is comprised of 9 Schools and 16 Departments with 1,000 staff and 16,000 students, including 900 PhD students across La Trobe's multi-campus operations. The College offers a range of general and specialist undergraduate and postgraduate courses that are rigorous and attuned to meeting the needs of students in ensuring their readiness to work in changing environments. Our courses are appropriately linked to emerging trends and critical global issues. The College has an outstanding reputation for research excellence, for research translation and for building strong relationships with industry partners.

The School of Nursing and Midwifery offers a wide range of nursing and midwifery programs. The undergraduate Bachelor of Nursing, Bachelor of Nursing/ Midwifery, and Bachelor of Nursing/Psychological Science have in excess of 1000 student enrolled. The Masters of Nursing provides opportunities for a variety of postgraduate specialisations for over approximately 700 students. Professional doctorates in nursing and midwifery, as well as Doctor of Philosophy, offer opportunities for higher degree research. We also have strong international engagement in research and delivery of Bachelor of Nursing (Post-Registration) in Singapore and Mauritius.

We have clinical schools with dedicated teaching spaces located within the Alfred, Austin, Northern and Melbourne Health Academic and Research Collaborative in Health (ARCH). As one of the first universities in Victoria to offer clinical schools, we offer a unique student experience that is informed by healthcare partners who provide clinical currency into our curriculum. In turn our staff are able to combine and embed current clinical practice with their research. This model of nursing teaching and learning is the best of both worlds.

Our research in nursing and midwifery continues to be rated as being well above world standard by the Australian Federal Government's most recent Excellence in Research for Australia (ERA) evaluation. Research programs within the School are clustered into five teams: Ageing and Chronic Illness, Children and Families, Mental Health, Nursing and Midwifery Workforce, Research in Education and Practice (REAP). The work of these teams complements the highly recognised work of our two research centres: Australian Institute for Primary Care and Ageing (AIPCA) and The Judith Lumley Centre (JLC).

Duties at this level may include:

- Design, coordinate and teach subjects and courses which provide a high quality learning experience that engages undergraduate, honours and postgraduate students.
