

Lecturer in Nursing

College/Division	College of Health and Medicine
School	School of Nursing
Location	Online/remote
Classification	Level B
Reporting line	Head of School of Nursing or delegate

Position Summary

The University of Tasmania is building a vision of a place-based University with a mission to enhance the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania, and from Tasmania, contribute to the world in areas of distinctive advantage. The University recognises that achieving this vision is dependent on the staff we employ as well as creating a people-centred University that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

This is an exciting opportunity for enthusiastic and motivated Registered Nurses to join a dynamic team in the School of Nursing which is part of the College of Health and Medicine.. You will be able to work from anywhere in Australia as you join one of Australia's top providers of postgraduate nursing education.

With a strong background in nursing education these teaching focused positions will contribute to student success through the educational preparation of Registered Nurses in their chosen area of specialisation. We are looking for new team members with expertise in the any one of the following areas of post graduate certificate specialisation: Critical Care, Emergency Nursing, Cancer Care, Mental Health, Paediatric, Perioperative Care, Anaesthetic and Recovery. The position also involves innovation in learning and teaching that can enhance the way we educate nurses. You will assist in developing a positive culture that enables high levels of collaboration and productivity, joining us once a year for team based professional development opportunities. Your role will also have scope to support the University to contribute to policy or nursing communities of practice, or research. These elements will be negotiated to be 30% of your role, depending on your interests and capacity.

This position is fractional (fraction to be negotiated) to enable the successful candidates to maintain a clinically based role. We will work with successful candidates to find the right balance between maintaining clinical currency and teaching commitments.

The School of Nursing works in close partnership with Tasmanian and national healthcare partners to improve the health of Tasmanians and to educate a new generation of nurses with capability in leadership and future-focused health care. We build our future workforce through innovative learning experiences using sophisticated digital and face to face delivery across our undergraduate and postgraduate courses. We foster a dynamic, highly engaged work environment with interdisciplinary opportunities for research and teaching across the across the university and with our health service partners. The School of Nursing sits within the College of Health and Medicine which has a focus on boosting health and medical research performance and evidence-based learning and teaching to educate a new generation of agile health professionals and researchers.

We are an inclusive workplace committed to 'working from the strength that diversity brings' reflected in our Statement of Values. We are dedicated to attracting, retaining and developing our people and are committed to inclusive principles. We celebrate the range of diverse assets that gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, age and life course bring. Applications are encouraged from all sectors of the community. Tell us how we can make this job work for you.

What You will Do

- Make a strong and sustained contribution to the University in achieving its strategic objectives and fulfilling its operational responsibilities.

- Undertake scholarly postgraduate coursework teaching of an exemplary quality.
- Make a significant contribution in the teaching of postgraduate contemporary nursing curricula, through unit coordination, curriculum development, evaluation and utilising emerging and online technology.
- Contribute to the development and maintenance of transformative partnerships inside the University and locally and nationally with the discipline, relevant interdisciplinary domains, profession, industry and/or wider community.
- Behave in a manner that aligns with the University of Tasmania Behaviour Policy and Statement of Values, participate in supporting program delivery, and promote a vibrant, positive culture with a focus on safety.
- Undertake other duties as assigned by the supervisor.

What We are Looking For (success criteria)

- Registration as a Nurse with the Nursing and Midwifery Board of Australia (NMBA).
- Post graduate nursing qualifications in the area of specialisation at Master level.
- Demonstrated and significant experience in nursing practice (with recency) in one of the advertised specialty areas of nursing practice.
- Experience and demonstrated achievement in university-level teaching and learning.
- Excellent interpersonal skills and a record of contributing effectively to building and maintaining transformative partnerships with the discipline, profession, industry (where relevant) and wider community.

Other position requirements

- Willingness to undertake a medical assessment based on meeting the inherent position requirements.
- Demonstrated ability to use technology to support online teaching requirements.

University of Tasmania

The University of Tasmania is an institution with an enduring commitment to our state and community, and a strong global outlook. We are committed to enhancing the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania. Our Strategic Direction strongly reflects the University community's voice that our University must be place based but globally connected as well as regionally networked and designed to deliver quality access to higher education for the whole State.

We believe that from our unique position here in Tasmania we can impact the world through the contributions of our staff, students and graduates. We recognise that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ, as well as creating a university that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

Check out more here: <https://www.utas.edu.au/jobs>

<https://www.utas.edu.au/careers/our-people-values-and-behaviours>