

Lecturer in Counselling

College/Division	Health and Medicine
School/Section	School of Psychological Sciences
Location	Hobart
Classification	Level B
Reporting line	Head of Psychological Sciences

Position Summary

The University of Tasmania is building a vision of a place-based University with a mission to enhance the intellectual, economic, social and culture future of Tasmania, and from Tasmania, contribute to the world in areas of distinctive advantage. The University recognises that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ as well as creating a people-centred University that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

We are seeking to appoint a Lecturer in Counselling in the School of Psychological Sciences which is part of the College of Health and Medicine.

As a teaching focused academic (80-20), the Lecturer in Counselling will develop, review and undertake face-to-face, blended and online delivery of units of study in the postgraduate counselling programs. Associated activities will include unit administration and coordination, where appropriate, and participation in other activities, such as student recruitment, admissions and progress reviews. The position is based on the Hobart Campus, with the appointee expected to engage in both online and on-campus delivery of learning and teaching. The appointee may also be required to travel between other University of Tasmania campuses for on-campus delivery of learning and teaching.

We are an inclusive workplace committed to ‘working from the strength that diversity brings’ reflected in our Statement of Values. We are dedicated to attracting, retaining and developing our people and are committed to inclusive principles. We celebrate the range of diverse assets that gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, age and life course bring. Applications are encouraged from all sectors of the community. Tell us how we can make this job work for you.

What You'll Do

- Make an effective and sustained contribution to the University in achieving its strategic objectives and fulfilling its operational responsibilities.
- Undertake scholarly postgraduate (and if relevant undergraduate) coursework teaching of a high quality.
- Contribute to the development and maintenance of productive and effective links inside the University and locally and nationally with the discipline, relevant interdisciplinary domains, profession, industry and/or wider community
- Undertake other duties as assigned by the supervisor.

What We're Looking For (success criteria)

- Completion of a tertiary qualification in counselling or postgraduate psychology.
- Demonstrated experience in postgraduate University-level teaching and learning in the area of Counselling.

- Demonstrate knowledge and experience in using blended and on-line learning tools in learning and teaching.
- A record of contributing to building and maintaining effective and productive links locally and nationally with the discipline, profession, industry (where relevant) and wider community.
- Evidence of highly developed interpersonal skills and a proven capacity to develop strong relationships with University colleagues, to relate to people from a variety of backgrounds and work collaboratively and effectively in a team environment.
- High level organisational skills and proven ability to work effectively as a team member in teaching and research.
- Industry or professional experience relevant to the position.

Other position requirements

- Demonstrated excellence in and ability to develop scholarly and innovative approaches to teaching and learning, including blended and online educational approaches.

University of Tasmania

The University of Tasmania is an institution with an enduring commitment to our state and community, and a strong global outlook. We are committed to enhancing the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania. Our Strategic Direction strongly reflects the University community's voice that our University must be place based but globally connected as well as regionally networked and designed to deliver quality access to higher education for the whole State.

We believe that from our unique position here in Tasmania we can impact the world through the contributions of our staff, students and graduates. We recognise that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ, as well as creating a university that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.
