Senior Lecturer in General Practice

College/Division  College of Health and Medicine
School/Section  Tasmanian School of Medicine
Location  Launceston
Classification  Level C
Reporting line  Reports to Director Launceston Clinical School

Position Summary

The University of Tasmania is building a vision of a place-based University with a mission to enhance the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania, and from Tasmania, contribute to the world in areas of distinctive advantage. The University recognises that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ as well as creating a people-centred University that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

We are seeking to appoint a senior lecturer in General Practice in the Tasmanian School of Medicine which is part of the College of Health and Medicine.

The position will involve the delivery of learning and teaching in General Practice at the Launceston Clinical School. The incumbent will support students and general practices while students are on clinical attachments, including travel to participating general practices. They will work collaboratively with other Launceston Clinical School team members to deliver formal teaching, including assessment, as the Medicine Program is delivered to senior medical students.

We are an inclusive workplace committed to ‘working from the strength that diversity brings’ reflected in our Statement of Values. We are dedicated to attracting, retaining and developing our people and are committed to inclusive principles. We celebrate the range of diverse assets that gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, age and life course bring. Applications are encouraged from all sectors of the community. Tell us how we can make this job work for you.

What You'll Do

- Make a strong and sustained contribution to the University in achieving its strategic objectives and fulfilling its operational responsibilities.
- Participate in research relevant to medical education, including through support for the Tasmanian General Practice-based learning and research network.
- Undertake scholarly undergraduate (and if relevant postgraduate) coursework teaching of an exemplary quality.
- Increasingly provide academic leadership, particularly in fostering outstanding research and/or learning and teaching.
- Contribute to the development and maintenance of productive and effective links inside the University and locally and nationally with the discipline, relevant interdisciplinary domains, profession, industry and/or wider community.
- Undertake other duties as assigned by the supervisor.
What We’re Looking For (success criteria)

- Completion of recognised primary medical qualification, together with postgraduate Fellowship qualifications in general practice.
- Completion of teaching or research qualifications, or equivalent would be desirable.
- Current registration as a Medical Practitioner with the Medical Board of Australia.
- A record of, or commitment to, research in the field of General Practice, including medical education, demonstrated by a record of high-quality publications, presentations at conferences, and success in securing external competitive and other funding.
- Proven experience, innovation, and demonstrated achievement in the delivery of high-quality University-level teaching and learning, in both online and face to face environments.
- A record of contributing effectively to building and maintaining effective and productive links locally and nationally with the discipline, profession, industry (where relevant) and wider community.
- Clinical professional experience relevant to the position.

Other position requirements

- Current driver’s licence
- Regular travel between campuses and general practices is required to deliver teaching and learning outcomes
- Willingness to undertake a medical assessment based on meeting the inherent position requirements

University of Tasmania

The University of Tasmania is an institution with an enduring commitment to our state and community, and a strong global outlook. We are committed to enhancing the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania. Our Strategic Direction strongly reflects the University community's voice that our University must be place based but globally connected as well as regionally networked and designed to deliver quality access to higher education for the whole State.

We believe that from our unique position here in Tasmania we can impact the world through the contributions of our staff, students and graduates. We recognise that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ, as well as creating a university that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.
