Position Summary

The Global Burden of Disease (GBD) Group, Data for Health Initiative – Civil Registration and Vital Statistics (CRVS) is based at The University of Melbourne in the School of Population and Global Health. The initiative is jointly funded between the Bloomberg Foundation and the Australian Government's Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade. The University of Melbourne Group, under the leadership of Professor Alan Lopez, provides the technical leadership for the Initiative to improve CRVS in a number of developing countries throughout the world.

Reporting to the Deputy Director, the Administration Officer provides administrative support for the extensive travel activities within the GBD Group. The incumbent will be responsible for finalising all travel and travel related documentation and expenditure for travel by staff to up to 20 countries worldwide. In addition, the incumbent will be expected to provide backup administration support (including office administration/reception) responding to requests by email or over the phone.

The position will require a sound knowledge of the travel policies and procedures of the University or the ability to quickly gain such knowledge. The incumbent will possess a high level of attention to detail and accuracy, and good interpersonal and time management skills.

1. Key Responsibilities

1.1 TRAVEL ADMINISTRATION

- ▶ Liaise with Campus Travel or UniTravel to book travel, including flights and accommodation as required, and follow up any outstanding issues or changes to travel arrangements
- ▶ Assist GBD staff with queries related to travel policy and procedures and documentation required for compliance
- ▶ Assist staff and international fellows with visa and related arrangements
- ▶ Demonstrate initiative and independence in performing travel-related tasks within policy and procedural guidelines.

1.2 GROUP ADMINISTRATION SUPPORT

In conjunction with other administration staff, provide broad administrative support (including office administration and reception) to the wider GBD project team responding to requests by email or over the phone as required.

Provide backup support to the Project Administrator and the Group Director and Deputy Director as required.

2. Selection Criteria

2.1 ESSENTIAL

- ▶ A Certificate IV qualification with relevant experience in an administrative role, or an equivalent combination of education and experience.
- ▶ Highly developed verbal, written communication and interpersonal skills including the ability to prioritise and schedule work to meet deadlines.

- ▶ A demonstrated service orientation with good interpersonal skills to enable you to interact in a friendly and receptive manner with staff at all levels across the University and consultants external to the University.
- ▶ Demonstrated ability to work flexibly and collaboratively as part of a team as well as to exercise self-direction, initiative and independence as required.
- ▶ Demonstrated computing skills and proficiency including email and Microsoft Office suite and web application. Proven ability to implement and maintain administrative and computer based systems.

5. Organisation Unit

5.1 MELBOURNE SCHOOL OF POPULATION AND GLOBAL HEALTH

The Melbourne School of Population Health was established in the Faculty of Medicine, Dentistry and Health Sciences in 2001. It became the Melbourne School of Population and Global Health in 2013. Approximately 350 people work in the School. The School employs 223 academic staff, and 111 professional staff. A further 15-20 staff are employed through partner agencies. The School's total budget is in excess of $50m. There are approximately 120 higher degree research students (predominantly PhD). The School aims to strengthen the understanding, capacity and services of society to meet population health needs and to improve the quality and equity of health care. It employs a population health framework that incorporates public health and preventative medicine, health promotion, clinical medicine and allied healthcare disciplines and an equity and evidence-based approach to health care and health policy. Its research programs aim to elucidate the genetic, environmental, social and economic determinants of health, and to focus on the evaluation of the health systems, programs and services that seek to prevent disease and injury and to promote health. The School provides research and professional development opportunities for medical undergraduates, postgraduates in a wide range of disciplines, clinicians in all sectors of the health care industry, scientists, professionals and leaders in population health.

5.2 FACULTY OF MEDICINE, DENTISTRY AND HEALTH SCIENCES

www.mdhs.unimelb.edu.au

The Faculty of Medicine, Dentistry & Health Sciences has an enviable research record and is the University of Melbourne's largest faculty in terms of management of financial resources, employment of academic and professional staff, teaching of undergraduate and postgraduate (including research higher degree) students and the conduct of basic and applied research. The Faculty's annual revenue is $628m with approximately 55% of this income related to research activities.

The Faculty has a student teaching load in excess of 8,500 equivalent full-time students including more than 1,300 research higher degree students. The Faculty has approximately 2,195 staff comprising 642 professional staff and 1,553 research and teaching staff.

The Faculty has appointed Australia's first Associate Dean (Indigenous Development) to lead the development and implementation of the Faculty's Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP), which will be aligned with the broader University – wide plan. To enable the Faculty to improve its Indigenous expertise knowledge base, the Faculty's RAP will address Indigenous employment, Indigenous student recruitment and retention, Indigenous cultural recognition and building partnerships with the Indigenous community as key areas of development.

5.3 THE UNIVERSITY OF MELBOURNE

The University of Melbourne is a leading international university with a tradition of excellence in teaching and research. With outstanding performance in international rankings, Melbourne is at the forefront of higher education in the Asia-Pacific region and the world. Melbourne's outstanding performance in international rankings puts it at the forefront of higher education in the Asia-Pacific region and the world. The University of Melbourne is consistently ranked by the THES among the world's top 50 universities.

Established in 1853, shortly after the founding of Melbourne, the University is located just a few minutes from the centre of this global city. The main Parkville campus is recognised as the hub of Australia's premier knowledge precinct comprising eight hospitals, many leading research institutes and a wide range of knowledge-based industries.

The University employs people of outstanding calibre and offers a unique environment where staff are valued and rewarded. Further information about working at The University of Melbourne is available at www.hr.unimelb.edu.au/careers.

5.4 GROWING ESTEEM, THE MELBOURNE CURRICULUM AND RESEARCH AT MELBOURNE: ENSURING EXCELLENCE AND IMPACT TO 2025

Growing Esteem describes Melbourne's strategy to achieve its aspiration to be a public-spirited and internationally-engaged institution, highly regarded for making distinctive contributions to society in research and research training, learning and teaching, and engagement. <http://about.unimelb.edu.au/strategy-and-leadership>

The University is at the forefront of Australia's changing higher education system and offers a distinctive model of education known collectively as the Melbourne Curriculum. The new educational model, designed for an outstanding experience for all students, is based on six broad undergraduate programs followed by a graduate professional degree, research higher degree or entry directly into employment. The emphasis on academic breadth as well as disciplinary depth in the new degrees ensures that graduates will have the capacity to succeed in a world where knowledge boundaries are shifting and reforming to create new frontiers and challenges. In moving to the new model, the University is also aligning itself with the best of emerging European and Asian practice and well-established North American traditions.

The University's global aspirations seek to make significant contributions to major social, economic and environmental challenges. Accordingly, the University's research strategy Research at Melbourne: Ensuring Excellence and Impact to 2025 aspires to a significant advancement in the excellence and impact of its research outputs. <http://research.unimelb.edu.au/our-research/research-at-melbourne>

The strategy recognises that as a public-spirited, research-intensive institution of the future, the University must strive to make a tangible impact in Australia and the world, working across disciplinary and sectoral boundaries and building deeper and more substantive engagement with industry, collaborators and partners. While cultivating the fundamental enabling disciplines through investigator-driven research, the University has adopted three grand challenges aspiring to solve some of the most difficult problems facing our world in the next century. These Grand Challenges include:

- ▶ Understanding our place and purpose – The place and purpose grand challenge centres on understanding all aspects of our national identity, with a focus on Australia's 'place' in the Asia-Pacific region and the world, and on our 'purpose' or mission to improve all dimensions of the human condition through our research.
- ▶ Fostering health and wellbeing – The health and wellbeing grand challenge focuses on building the scale and breadth of our capabilities in population and global health; on harnessing our contribution to the 'convergence revolution' of biomedical and health research, bringing together the life sciences, engineering and the physical sciences; and on addressing the physical, mental and social aspects of wellbeing by looking beyond the traditional boundaries of biomedicine.
- ▶ Supporting sustainability and resilience – The sustainability and resilience grand challenge addresses the critical issues of climate change, water and food security, sustainable energy and designing resilient cities and regions. In addition to the technical aspects, this grand challenge considers the physical and social functioning of cities, connecting physical phenomena with lessons from our past, and the implications of the technical solutions for economies, living patterns and behaviours.

Essential to tackling these challenges, an outstanding faculty, high performing students, wide collaboration including internationally and deep partnerships with external parties form central components of Research at Melbourne: Ensuring Excellence and Impact to 2025.
