The University chooses to focus on areas of teaching and research that are closely connected with its particular character as a University that is Catholic, public and national. The focus areas are Theology and Philosophy, Health, Education, and the Common Good and Social Justice.

ACU enrolls more than 35,000 students across seven campuses – Adelaide, Ballarat, Brisbane, Canberra, Melbourne, North Sydney and Strathfield (Sydney).

ABOUT THE FACULTY OF THEOLOGY AND PHILOSOPHY

The Faculty of Theology and Philosophy is the largest Faculty of its kind in Australia. It is comprised of two national schools, the School of Theology and the School of Philosophy, as well as the Institute for Religion and Critical Inquiry. In the recent ERA 2015 assessment, the University was ranked at above world standard (ERA score of 4) in the Religion and Religious Studies and the Philosophy Fields of Research, and at world standard (ERA score of 3) in the Applied Ethics Field of Research, placing it among the very best universities in Australia in these fields. The 2017 QS Subject Rankings placed ACU 36th in the world in Theology, Divinity, and Religious Studies. The Faculty offers undergraduate and postgraduate courses and higher degree research studies across six campuses and is a leader in the flexible delivery of teaching.

ABOUT THE INSTITUTE FOR RELIGION AND CRITICAL INQUIRY

Established in 2014 to contribute to the University's strategic goal of supporting research in theology and philosophy, the IRCI currently comprises four research centres: the Centre for Biblical and Early Christian Studies; the Centre for Catholic Thought and Practice; the Centre for Religion, Philosophy and Culture; and, the Centre for Moral Philosophy and Applied Ethics. As the Institute develops, we expect the configuration of these Centres to evolve. We look for appointees to the Institute who demonstrate the ability to think across traditional disciplinary boundaries.

The Institute is in an exciting growth stage. In the last two years, a number of appointments have been made in the area of Biblical and Early Christian Studies, Theology, Philosophy and Religion, and Moral Philosophy. We seek to develop large-scale collaborative projects focused on philosophical problems in the near term. In addition, the Institute has developed strong international partnerships with leading Universities in Europe, the UK and North America and has also established a series of research seminars each year at ACU's Rome Campus.

The Institute has an international outlook, seeks a diverse staffing profile, and welcomes applications from all suitably-qualified scholars.

POSITION PURPOSE

To produce high-quality research in the fields of Epistemology or Metaphysics with a view to contributing to and strengthening the University's research profile.

We seek applicants specialising in epistemology or metaphysics. In addition to general research in these fields, we have a special interest in questions relating to ethics, particularly as related to society and politics. For example, in the area of epistemology, applicants may have a research focus on topics such as trust, disagreement, collective belief or intention, or institutional practices and justification, while in the area of metaphysics, we have interests in ontological and other metaphysical aspects of ethnicity, gender, the nature of collectives or of social action, and social construction. Applicants who combine expertise in standard subfield(s) of epistemology or metaphysics with interest in problem areas such as these, or with interests in the history of philosophy, will be given special attention, though this is not essential for successful applications.

Applicants will work collegially and collaboratively to build a research profile and contribute to team projects within their areas of specialization and across traditional disciplinary boundaries as appropriate. The Institute includes scholars of Christian Theology, Early Christianity, History, Literature, New Testament, Philosophy, and Religion, and we expect that applicants will be motivated to join a community of scholars interested in fostering and sustaining conversations between these disciplines.
