

Lecturer - Leadership Program

College/Division	College of Health & Medicine
School/Section	Tasmanian School of Medicine/ Public Health and Health Service Innovation Program
Location	Hobart
Classification	Academic Level B (1 FTE)
Reporting line	Director, Leadership Program

Position Summary

The University of Tasmania is building a vision of a place-based University with a mission to enhance the intellectual, economic, social and culture future of Tasmania, and from Tasmania, contribute to the world in areas of distinctive advantage. The University recognises that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ as well as creating a people-centred University that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

This is an exciting opportunity to join a dynamic team in Leadership in the School of Medicine which is part of the College of Health & Medicine at our Medical Science Precinct in Hobart. The Lecturer position in the Leadership Program is a teaching intensive role which provides an opportunity to progress an academic career aligned with a new strategic direction at the University of Tasmania.

The Lecturer will deliver contemporary high-quality teaching, develop innovative and evidence-based distinctive content, and be responsible for the coordination of units including quality, compliance, and assessment. The successful candidate will teach within the postgraduate Leadership Program courses and will have capacity to develop and enhance high quality learning experiences. The appointee will be required to make a significant contribution to teaching scholarship in health and human service leadership. The appointee should have demonstrated current or previous connections and practical experience with health and human service leadership and management. Experience and/or knowledge of clinical governance, quality and risk management and/or clinical psychology would be an advantage.

We are an inclusive workplace committed to ‘working from the strength that diversity brings’ reflected in our Statement of Values. We are dedicated to attracting, retaining and developing our people and are committed to inclusive principles. We celebrate the range of diverse assets that gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, age and life course bring. Applications are encouraged from all sectors of the community. Tell us how we can make this job work for you.

What You'll Do

- Make an effective and sustained contribution to the University in achieving its strategic objectives and fulfilling its operational responsibilities through the College of Health and Medicine.
- Undertake contemporary scholarly teaching in postgraduate programs predominantly through online learning modalities. Coordinate units, develop distinctive strategically aligned course and unit content, and provide assessment support.
- Contribute to the development of sustainable transformative professional stakeholder partnerships and collaborate across the broader College to deliver on the learning and teaching strategy.
- Undertake other duties as assigned by the supervisor.

What We're Looking For (success criteria)

- A PhD in a relevant field or a record of achievement as a recognised leader within the health and human service sector at a state/national level.
- Established capabilities in higher education learning and teaching with substantial experience in online delivery modes, promotion of academic integrity, and an adaptive, student-centered learning and teaching philosophy; completion of a Graduate Certificate in Higher Education, or similar qualification would be an advantage.
- Proven experience in developing transformative professional partnerships, and the ability to maximise learning opportunities for students.
- Collaborative teaching team member with the ability to work across disciplines within the College to ensure both strategic alignment and operational efficiency of course and unit content.
- Demonstrated excellent oral and written communication skills and the ability to work effectively with students, staff and stakeholders from a diverse range of backgrounds.
- A demonstrated capacity to align with the University's values, behaviour, and leadership expectations.

University of Tasmania

The University of Tasmania is an institution with an enduring commitment to our state and community, and a strong global outlook. We are committed to enhancing the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania. Our Strategic Direction strongly reflects the University community's voice that our University must be place based but globally connected as well as regionally networked and designed to deliver quality access to higher education for the whole State.

We believe that from our unique position here in Tasmania we can impact the world through the contributions of our staff, students and graduates. We recognise that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ, as well as creating a university that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

Check out more here:

<https://www.utas.edu.au/jobs>

<https://www.utas.edu.au/careers/our-people-values-and-behaviours>

The intention of this position description is to highlight the most important aspects, rather than to limit the scope or accountabilities of this role. Duties above may be altered in accordance with the changing requirements of the position.

