

Associate Lecturer/Lecturer in Classics

College/Division	College of Arts, Law, and Education
School/Section	School of Humanities
Location	Hobart
Classification	Level A / Level B
Reporting line	Reports to Head of School

Position Summary

The University of Tasmania is building a vision of a place-based University with a mission to enhance the intellectual, economic, social and culture future of Tasmania, and from Tasmania, contribute to the world in areas of distinctive advantage. The University recognises that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ as well as creating a people-centred University that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

The position of Associate Lecturer/ Lecturer in Classics is located in the School of Humanities is part of the College of Arts, Law, and Education

The Associate Lecturer / Lecturer in Classics undertakes teaching and research in the field of ancient Greek and/or Roman history and literature, and contributes to interdisciplinary teaching in the School of Humanities. The incumbent teaches and coordinate units as required in on-campus, blended, and on-line modes.

A teaching intensive academic position, this role focuses research activity in a field related to the teaching program.

We are an inclusive workplace committed to ‘working from the strength that diversity brings’ reflected in our Statement of Values. We are dedicated to attracting, retaining and developing our people and are committed to inclusive principles. We celebrate the range of diverse assets that gender identity, ethnicity, sexual orientation, disability, age and life course bring. Applications are encouraged from all sectors of the community. Tell us how we can make this job work for you.

What You'll Do

- Make an effective and sustained contribution to the University in achieving its strategic objectives and fulfilling its operational responsibilities.
- Teach and assess students in undergraduate Classics units as required across flexible, fully on-line, and face-to-face modes; coordinate units and courses, conduct appropriate design, implementation and evaluation of units; and contribute to interdisciplinary teaching in Humanities units as appropriate to the academic level of appointment.
- Undertake high-quality research of national standing in a relevant field of research, independently or in collaborative research teams, to meet and regularly exceed the University's expectations for the appointed academic Level.
- Participate in the School of Humanities through active involvement in team planning, providing student and staff support, and contributing to the overall collegial well-being of the school.
- Undertake other duties as reasonably assigned by the supervisor.

What We're Looking For (success criteria)

- Progress towards completion of PhD in a relevant field (for appointment at Level A); a PhD in a relevant field (for appointment at Level B)
- Demonstrated ability to deliver high-quality learning experiences for students in undergraduate Classics units across flexible, fully on-line, and face-to-face modes.
- A good record of and continuing commitment to research in Classics that has achieved recognition and made worthwhile contributions that align with CALE research priorities.
- Demonstrated ability to establish and maintain strong and mutually positive relationships with colleagues in collaborative teaching and in contributing to a working environment that is kind, caring and respectful.
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills with the ability to relate effectively and sensitively to students and staff from a variety of backgrounds and cultures, and to maintain a professional manner when dealing with staff and students.

Other position requirements

- A demonstrated ability to teach in at least one other disciplinary or interdisciplinary teaching program offered by the Humanities at the University of Tasmania.

University of Tasmania

The University of Tasmania is an institution with an enduring commitment to our state and community, and a strong global outlook. We are committed to enhancing the intellectual, economic, social and cultural future of Tasmania. Our Strategic Direction strongly reflects the University community's voice that our University must be place based but globally connected as well as regionally networked and designed to deliver quality access to higher education for the whole State.

We believe that from our unique position here in Tasmania we can impact the world through the contributions of our staff, students and graduates. We recognise that achieving this vision is dependent on the people we employ, as well as creating a university that is values-based, relational, diverse, and development-focused.

Check out more here: <https://www.utas.edu.au/jobs>

<https://www.utas.edu.au/careers/our-people-values-and-behaviours>

The intention of this position description is to highlight the most important aspects, rather than to limit the scope or accountabilities of this role. Duties above may be altered in accordance with the changing requirements of the position.