Overview of program

The Gippsland Financial Counselling program offers a comprehensive financial counselling service to individuals who may be experiencing financial stress. The program works across the region to develop, coordinate, and deliver services which encourage self-determination and self-reliance.

The financial counsellors act without conflict of interest, to negotiate and advocate on behalf of people who are at financial risk.

Financial counsellors, during the counselling process are able to educate and pass on skills to consumers as to their rights and responsibilities when using credit and other marketplace services and empower the consumer through this knowledge.

The Bushfire recovery program focuses on providing free accessible specialized bushfire recovery financial counselling services to bushfire affected individuals. The program will provide outreach services and out-posted services to rural and remote communities.

Position Objectives

The objectives of the Financial Counselling positions are as follows:

1.	To provide a free and confidential service to individuals and families who have been affected by the bushfires experiencing financial stress through a combination of advice and information, casework, and secondary consultations.
2.	To participate in community education programs for the purpose of raising awareness of financial issues for individuals and community affected by the bushfires, including the provision of information and resource materials to individuals in the community, groups, schools etc.
3.	To provide an outreach service to locations across Gippsland affected by the bushfires in order to ensure service accessibility.

Key responsibilities

The key responsibilities are as follows but are not limited to:

1.	Provide a professional financial counselling service assisting individuals and families experiencing financial stress who are affected by the bushfires. This will occur through phone and face to face contact. This includes assessing the financial situation of clients, providing information, assistance with budget planning, advocacy and negotiation.
