🕒 Position Summary

Australian Red Cross' works to assist migrants in transition to ensure they have their humanitarian needs met and are participating and included in Australian society. We seek to support people who are particularly vulnerable due to their circumstances, for example, people seeking protection, with restricted access to support and services, or vulnerable to exploitation. We work directly with those seeking help, irrespective of their legal status, their background, or how they arrived in Australia. Australian Red Cross also works to directly contribute to the Red Cross Red Crescent Movement's increased impact on migration across the world.

This role will lead Red Cross' local work in increasing inclusion activities, specifically the roll out and expansion of In Search of Safety education program, and related community engagement models. They will form partnerships to activate change for greater engagement in civic, economic and community participation for migrants in transition.

The role will work closely with local leadership and contribute to a nationwide Community of Practice in the planning, research, development, implementation and evaluation of this program which is directly related to the strategic priorities of Red Cross.
